Good morning Glenn, I hope you are well. We have been working recently with a number of cold storage customers that have multiple locations within California and around the country. They have used a variety of refrigerants, and have new installations planned. I was wondering if any similar initiatives have been worked on or are being considered for this sector that may parallel what has been done with the Food Retailers, establishing a "fleet GWP average" initiative, etc.? This may be a smaller sector, however these sites have often very large refrigerant charges. I was just wondering if anything was in the works that we should make our customers aware of in assisting them with future planning.

Thanks Glenn, Bryan
