

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Settlement Agreement (Agreement) is entered into by and between the California Air Resources Board (ARB), with its principal office at 1001 I Street, Sacramento, California, and Delta Brands, Inc. with its principal place of business at 1890 Palmer Avenue, Larchmont, New York 10538.

RECITALS

1. ARB alleges that between January 2009 and September 2012, Delta Brands sold, supplied, and offered for sale in California "Lucky For Men Deodorant Body Spray" subject to the high volatility organic compound (HVOC) limit for the aerosol deodorant category in title 17, California Code of Regulations (CCR), Section 94501 of the Antiperspirants and Deodorants Regulation.
2. ARB alleges that the "Lucky For Men Deodorant Body Spray" referenced in recital paragraph 1 contained concentrations of HVOC exceeding the zero percent HVOC limit for the aerosol deodorant category specified in title 17, CCR, Section 94502(a)(2).
3. ARB alleges that Delta Brands failed to report an explanation of their date code in advance of the code's use by the manufacturer, as specified in title 17 CCR, Section 94504(a)(1).
4. ARB alleges that between January 2009 and January 2012, Delta Brands sold, supplied, and offered for sale in California "Home Select Fresh Home Fragrance Sprays" subject to the volatile organic compound (VOC) limit for the aerosol double phase air freshener category in title 17, CCR, Section 94509(a) of the California Consumer Products Regulation.
5. ARB alleges that initial testing of the "Home Select Fresh Home Fragrance Spray" referenced in recital paragraph 3 showed the concentrations of VOC exceeding the 25 percent VOC limit for the aerosol double phase air freshener category specified in title 17, CCR, Section 94509(a) and Delta Brands did not provide formulation. Therefore the initial test results were used to establish an alleged violation. After the issuance of a Notice of Violation, Delta Brands provided formulation information that showed that the "Home Select Fresh Home Fragrance Spray" was within the method tolerance of the VOC limit for double phase air fresheners.
6. ARB alleges that Delta Brands failed to report sales information within 90 days concerning the products listed in recital paragraph 3 after written request from the Executive Officer at ARB as specified in Title 17 CCR, Section 94513(a).
7. ARB alleges that if the allegations described in recital paragraphs 1, 2, 3, and 6 were proven, civil penalties could be imposed against Delta Brands as provided in Health and Safety Code Sections 42402 et seq. for each and every unit involved in the violations.

8. Delta Brands admits the allegations described in recital paragraphs 1, 2, 3 and 6, but denies any liability resulting from said allegations.
9. The parties agree to resolve this matter completely by means of this Agreement, without the need for formal litigation.

Therefore, the parties agree as follows:

8. Each of the undersigned represents and warrants that he or she has full power and authority to enter into this Agreement.
9. SB 1402 Statement. California Health and Safety Code (HSC) Section 39619.7 (Senate Bill 1402 - Dutton, Chapter 413, statutes of 2010) requires ARB to provide information on the basis for the penalties it seeks. This Settlement Agreement includes this information, which is also summarized here.

The provision of law the penalty is being assessed under and why that provision is most appropriate for that violation.

The penalty provision being applied in this case is HSC Section 42402, et seq. because Delta Brands sold, supplied, offered for sale, or manufactured for sale consumer products for commerce in California in violation of the Consumer Products Regulations (Title 17 California Code of Regulations (CCR) Section 94507, et seq.). The penalty provisions of HSC Section 42402, et seq. apply to violations of the Consumer Products Regulations because these regulations were adopted under authority of HSC Section 41712 which is in Part 4 of Division 26 of the Health and Safety Code.

The manner in which the penalty amount was determined, including aggravating and mitigating factors and per unit or per vehicle basis for the penalty.

Penalties must be set at levels sufficient to discourage violations. ARB considered all relevant circumstances in determining the penalty in this case, including the eight factors specified in HSC Section 42403.

Under HSC Section 42402, et seq. the penalties for strict liability violations of the Antiperspirant and Deodorant Regulation and the Consumer Product Regulations are a maximum of $1,000 per day of violation, with each day being a separate violation.

In cases like this, involving unintentional first time violations of the Antiperspirant and Deodorant Regulation and the Consumer Products Regulations, the ARB has sought and obtained penalties of approximately $17,000 per ton of excess emissions of VOC attributable to the violation. This represents an average cost to retire a ton of volatile organic compound emission credits and reformulate a product to comply with the Consumer Product Regulations. However, in similar Antiperspirant and Deodorant Regulation settlements, penalties have been obtained based upon one third of the retail value of the product and have resulted in penalties of approximately $12,000 per ton of HVOC. In this case the penalty for this portion of the settlement was $72,000 for the 7.57 tons of excess high volatility organic compound (HVOC) emissions attributable to the violation which represents approximately $9,500 per ton of excess emissions after a reduction due to the demonstrated financial burden to the company.

In addition, ARB has sought and obtained penalties of $10,000 per violation for the failure to provide records. In this case, an additional penalty of $5,000 was attributable to the procedural violation for failing to provide records. This portion of the penalty was reduced due to the determination that the product was within method tolerance of the VOC limit after records were finally produced. Penalties in future cases might be smaller or larger on a per ton basis.

Is the penalty being assessed under a provision of law that prohibits the emission of pollution at a specified level, and, if so a quantification of excess emissions, if it is practicable to do so.

The Consumer Product Regulations do not prohibit emissions above a specified level, but they do limit the concentration of VOCs in regulated products. In this case a quantification of the excess emissions attributable to the violations was practicable because Delta Brands made the product formulation and sales data necessary to make this quantification available to ARB. Based upon this information (which Delta Brands has designated as confidential), the violations were calculated to have caused 7.57 tons of excess HVOC to be emitted to the atmosphere in California.

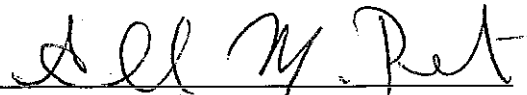

10. Delta Brands acknowledges that ARB has complied with SB1402 in investigating, prosecuting and settling this case. Specifically, ARB has considered all relevant facts, including those listed at HSC Sections 42403, has explained the manner in which the penalty amount was calculated, has identified the provision of law under which the penalty is being assessed and has considered and determined that while this penalty is not being assessed under a provision of law that prohibits the emission of pollutants at a specified level, it is practicable for ARB to quantify the excess emissions from the alleged violations, has done so and has included this information in this Settlement Agreement.

11. Final penalties were determined based on the unique circumstances of this matter, considered together with the need to remove any economic benefit from noncompliance, the goal of deterring future violations and obtaining swift compliance, the consideration of past penalties in similar negotiated cases, and the potential costs and risk associated with litigating these particular violations. The penalty reflects violations extending over a number of days resulting in quantifiable harm to the environment considered together with the complete circumstances of this case. Penalties in future cases might be smaller or larger on a per ton basis.
12. The penalty in this case was based on confidential settlement communications between ARB and Delta Brands that ARB does not retain in the ordinary course of business. The penalty also reflects ARB's assessment of the relative strength of its case against Delta Brands, the desire to avoid the uncertainty, burden and expense of litigation, obtain swift compliance with the law and remove any unfair advantage that Delta Brands may have secured from its actions.
