Comment:

Outboard motors and other marine engines are some of the most highly polluting combustion engines, as well as unpleasantly loud. The emissions are damaging to human lungs and to the plants and animals and fish. I support your efforts to reduce that source of pollution as far as possible.

Comment:

I write to urge the Board to NOT provide relief to the small volume manufacturers of high performance sterndrive and inboard engines (those with rated power greater than 373 kilowatts) by allowing them to certify engines to less stringent exhaust standards than would have otherwise been required under the existing regulation (i.e., 5.0 grams per kilowatt-hour combined hydrocarbons and oxides of nitrogen (g/kW-hr HC+NO_x)).

The board has the opportunity to protect the health of California boaters and swimmers. As a fisherman I want environmental protection so that I can safely eat the fish I catch.

Providing relief for economic interests of a few companies with lobbyists over the health concerns of the many is unfair.

Please consider adopting a uniform policy that regulates all engines on california waterways.

Thank you,
Randall Frank
