Subject: Reducing Greenhouse Gas Emissions

Comment:

Hello -

Several of the gases listed are extremely important to semiconductor manufacturing. Most undergo chemical change during the process and are not emitted as a greenhouse gas.

If this legislation is concerned with monitoring their use and reducing/controlling emissions it can be supported.

If this legislation is concerned about eliminating their use it will be extremely problematic.

Sincerely,

Charles Wurm

Subject: Fantasy of global warming and funding al gore's home

Comment:

Every scientific group with credentials in climate change and NOT sponsored buy a government group or agency says only those that are to lazy to look up REAL information or those, like CARB, are only for power grab at any cost.

Remember the racism that is still in the EPA. The ban on DDT's that was the result of falsely claimed disasters by the EPA that ended in the deaths of millions of lessor humans in Africa.

DDT is not dangerous. EPA knows this, but as long as it lowers the population of the third world (Africans) then who cares.

This horse crap of CARB and the snake oil sales man al gore about the non existent global warming will do the same thing here in the US. Losing jobs. But as long as those from CARB and al gore can still make money and get more power.

Oh and by the way, why has global warming been exchanged for climate change? Sun comes up temp rises, opps climate change. Sun goes down, climate change.

Your desire CARB, to gain power and to put people under your thumb just to make your selves feel powerful at the cost of lives and happiness of the American people is pathetic.
